

Connecting management for a socially minded economy

Workshop

“How managers can give their contribution to face the anthropological crisis in economy”

This workshop wants to be an opportunity for managers to meet and share ideas and experiences, practical solutions and new proposals to afford the challenges this difficult time put in economical field, through the contribution of reciprocity. This is the idea that can offer the perspective for the renewal of relationships, activities, and organizational structures.

Something about us

New Humanity involves people engaged to give “a soul” to modern society, helping each other to introduce reciprocity inside daily and professional lives, bringing hope and trust into economical bodies. Barcelona Management Group meets every 2 month to share ideas and experiences on personal engagement in management responsibility, as a privilege space to build a network of sharing for the common good.

They open their “reciprocity laboratory” to other managers, to share the beauty of thinking and working for a common project, facing great questions regarding economics and management.
